

38.04.02 Management

Strategic and Innovation Management

Program objective:

train competitive specialists with the latest tools of general and strategic management in the interests of innovative development of high-tech sectors of Russian economy, including the interests of the global business of ROSATOM.

Competitive advantages:

- developing and implementing strategies in production and administrative structures at various levels of management, inter alia in research organizations and institutions of higher and continuing professional education.
- mastering the skills of managing innovative projects.